1. Management comments

Since the strategy inception, September was always, except 2019, a bad month for our algorithm. This September the gross performance was -1.83% while the S&P500 fell by -4.87%. The improvements of trading system we made in August have been geared to diversify the portfolio and to recognise new patterns of market behaviour. As a result, 19 stocks (out of 31 actively traded) generated profit but their contribution in total was smaller relative to the bad performers. We keep improving the algorithm with focus on portfolio optimisation and making optimisation faster and better fitted to heightened market volatility.

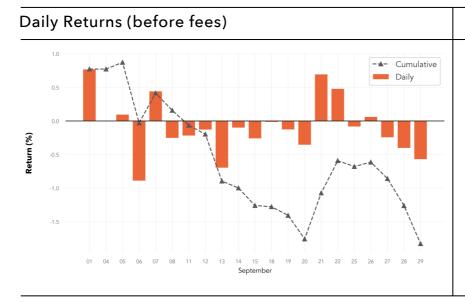

Last month gross exposure of the portfolio was considerably lower compared to August, and average net exposure was negative. The ARQuant strategy performed very similar to the benchmark EurekaHedge North America Long Short Equities Hedge Fund Index (-1.97% p.m. as published on October 6, 2023)
